Grace Cameron to Appear at the Grand.

Dainty, vivacious and piquant Grace Cameron will be seen at the Grand Monday evening, May 11th in C. H. Kerr's latest musical work entitled "Little Dollie Dimples." This offering, which is now in its second year of success, is a most pretentious one and the production complete in every detail, regarding costumes, scenic equipment and electrical display. The supporting company is a large one, including sixty voices in the well trained chorus and the cast is a most notable one. The piece is said to be very strong in dramatic construction and can be played more as a musical drama than a musical comedy.

Base Ball Meeting.

All lovers of base ball are invited to attend the meeting to be held in the City Hall on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock sharp when a manager and other officers will be elected. Over $200 has been subscribed thus far and it is expected to put up a good article of ball this season.

Albert Neiman, who has been employed at Tomahawk the past winter, is home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Neiman of the west side.

Started Up their Mill.

The Stange-Elli company started up their saw mill on Monday morning and as they have a good supply of logs and plenty of more in sight it is probable that they will be able to cut as much lumber as they need right along. It is their intention to manufacture all of their lumber into other products where possible.

The starting of the mill was delayed somewhat by one of the large belts that was ordered being sent to Grand Rapids, Mich. After a time it was located and started for this city when it got mixed up in a railroad wreck and was sidetracked again for a week or so. The belt arrived on Thursday after being about two weeks on the way.

Two Ball Games.

On Sunday the local team will play with Wausau when it is expected that there will be a good game.

On Monday there will be another game, the St. Paul Gophers, a colored team, to be here. It is expected that both of these games will be good ones and baseball lovers are notified to be on deck.

Sheriff Welch, Judge Brown and Senator Branson fished trout at Wausau on Sunday and Monday. They reported the weather cold and the fish rather scarce.

Scandinavian Moravian Church.

The Kvindeforsamling will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Hogstrom. The Willing Workers will meet at the same place in the evening. The Young Men singing class will meet Saturday evening in the parsonage. Sunday services: Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Scandinavian preaching services at 10:30. No evening services will be held, but the C. E. Society will join in the union C. E. meeting to be held in the German Moravian church.

The newly organized Sunday school at Rudolph will begin its first session next Sunday at 2 p. m.

H. B. Johnson, Pastor.

Will Observe Memorial Day.

The local G. A. R. post, assisted by the Women's Relief Corps will observe Memorial day in this city. Department Commander J. E. Martin, having issued a general order covering same. Particulars will be given later, but it is probable that the program will not vary much from that followed out in former years.

Mrs. F. P. Daly will close her piano contest on Thursday. She reports that over five hundred have taken part in the contest, so that the work of the judges will be no small matter.

About Grand Rapids People.

In speaking of the new drug company recently formed in this city the San of Stanley, N. D., has the following to say:

"A business change has taken place whereby Stanley's pioneer drug store, owned and operated during the past five years by Dr. G. H. Miller and Druggist Gray Miller, passes into the hands of new people who have purchased this valuable property, and who, judging from the favorable impression they have already made, will not only make a valuable addition to our business ranks but also become splendid acquisitions to our social circles. The new parties interested in the purchase of the Miller property are Messrs. Paul J. Chose of Grand Rapids, Wis., S. O. Chose of Dayton, N. D., and Mrs. B. Pierce of Lakota, N. D. The new firm will be known as 'The Peoples Drug Co.' and the store will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Paul J. Chose and Mrs. Pierce, assisted by Mr. Wahlberg, drug clerk, and Mr. Guy Miller, who will remain with the new firm for some months. The new firm comprises a most courteous and social body of people, and to say that we welcome them to our midst is putting it mildly, and we have no hesitancy in asserting that they will soon establish a business that will be a credit not only to themselves but to Stanley."

The regular monthly stock fair occurs in this city on Tuesday, May 12th. It is expected that there will be a large crowd in attendance.

Manager Bell reports that he has got rich managing the stock fairs and is thinking seriously of resigning.

Council in Session.

The city council met in regular session on Tuesday evening. Mayor Pommerville presiding. There were a number of small matters disposed of in the regular order of business, but nothing very startling occurred.

The committee appointed to look up locations for additional lights on the west side made a report, recommending that nine lights be put up, giving the places for them. Their report was adopted.

The board of review was made to consist of the mayor, city clerk and three other officers of the city. The supervisors from the 7th and 1st wards were appointed as two of the officers and the city attorney as the other one.

T. A. Taylor, appearing for the school board, asked that the city council see to the erection of the fence around the Lowell building, the old fence having fallen down on account of the road at that point having been lowered. The matter was referred to a committee.

The sum of $50 was appropriated for the G. A. R. and the sum of $20 for the W. R. O., to be used by them in the observance of Memorial day.

The committee on general business was instructed to see to the work of getting rid of the old ice breaker in the middle of the river.

The matter of disposing of dead carcasses was referred to the finance committee, the party who had the contract of carting away and burying carcasses having thrown up his job. They were instructed to report at the next meeting of the council.

It was also decided to fill up the hole next to the M. Gordon building on the east side, which was excavated some time ago for the erection of an engine house.

The matter of fixing up the beam of the library building for a ment of the library was also brought up and city lockup was also brought up and it was decided to see what could be done along this line as soon as the water had gone down somewhat.

In accordance with bids submitted the Tribune was appointed the official paper and the First National bank the city depository.

The committee on general business was instructed to see about building a brick lockup on the west side. The present quarters were condemned several years ago, but nothing had been done up to date to improve them.

The council appointed John Schnabel, Sr., and Alderman Otto Roenies as members of the board of directors of the Electric & Water Co.

Aldermen G. M. Hill, Roenies and Ellis were appointed as park commissioners.

The board of public works was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of all sewers and water works that have been ordered in and that will be built in the future.

The city clerk was appointed the purchasing agent for the city. Hereafter this work has been done by several and it has not proven as satisfactory as it should.

Death of Mrs. St. Amour.

Mrs. Alaine St. Amour died at her home on the west side on Thursday afternoon, cause of death being cancer. Mrs. St. Amour was seventy-five years of age, having been born at St. Martin, Canada in 1832. She is survived by three children, Daniel St. Amour and Mrs. W. F. Was Found Guilty.

Fred King of Pilsbville was up before Judge Brown on Thursday on a warrant sworn out by Game Warden Cole, King being charged with spearing fish.

King entered a plea of not guilty, but the evidence showed that King and two companions had entered a boat about 9:30 o'clock one night and had lighted a gasoline torch that projected over the front of the boat, and that the three occupants were armed with fish spears, so the jury found them guilty.

King contended that they were just taking a trip up the river and that the jack was carried to light their way. They carried fish spears for the purpose of poling the boat along.

An appeal was taken from the decision of the justice court and the matter will come up before the circuit court at the May session.

Secures Drainage Contract.

Wm. Wallace has secured the contract to construct a drainage ditch thru the towns of Grant in Portage county and Grand Rapids in Wood county. The ditch will be eleven miles in length and will empty into the Two Mile creek in the town of Grand Rapids.

Mr. Wallace has purchased the dredge owned by B. O. Eggert and expects to start on the work at once and keep a day and night crew going until the work is completed. If everything runs smoothly it is possible that the work may be finished this season.

The digging of this ditch will drain a large section of land lying east of the town of Grand Rapids. The ditch will be six feet deep and eighteen feet wide.

A Republican's View of Republican Harmony.

A few years ago Percy S. Heath was the secretary of the republican national committee, the right-hand man of the late Mark Hanna and first assistant postmaster general—which, by the way, is the position now held, in fact, though not in name, by Frank H. Hitchcock, who is now the political manager for Senator Taft. We find in a Savannah paper an interview in which he says these things:

I have never known a split in the democratic party equal in extent, bitterness or determination to that of the present one in the republican party. This split is due not to partisan principles, or public policies of the usual character, but to the structure from impersonal party policies. It is due to the usurpation of all that belongs to the whole people—a condition so well known as to make description or comment unnecessary. I would not be surprised to see a candidate nominated at Denver get more republican votes than the nominee at Chicago.

Mr. Heath was in charge in 1896 of the publicity bureau of the republican national committee. It might interest readers to know what the work of such a bureau is when, as in that year, the means for supporting it are unlimited. "I myself caused to be printed," he says, "nearly one hundred and forty enclosures of pamphlets, leaflets and posters; and I furnished matter through the bureau for constant daily, weekly or monthly publication to over twelve thousand newspapers and magazines."

Mr. Heath goes on to point out that 40,000 votes in certain states in 1896 would have resulted in the election of Mr. Bryan. This fact was more definitely and explicitly explained by the late Gov. Altgeld. Mr. Heath's statement is the truth, but not all the truth. Gov. Altgeld went further and showed that in certain portions of Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky there were more votes cast than there were of voting age, and that these votes, or a swinging majority of them, were cast against Mr. Bryan. When the former secretary of the republican national committee admits that but a few more votes would have elected Mr. Bryan and the known student of election returns the entry has known proves that tens of thousands of fraudulent votes were cast against Mr. Bryan. It may help the country to understand why the time is at hand for a reversal of that doubtful verdict.

Notice to Wool Raisers.

Johnson & Hill Co., Grand Rapids, Wis.

Gentlemen:—The alarming increase in the use of wool or binder twine by the farmers throughout the fleece wool states has determined us to take a stand against its further use by notifying all our buyers and people who are in the habit of buying and consigning their wools to us. The loose fibres from the twine cannot be eliminated from the wool in manufacturing, and some of our very best customers say that they will not accept a fleece thus tied in any delivery that we may make of fleece wools. We therefore are notifying all our agents, and others, that under no account must they accept wools so tied as no discount on the price can make the wool satisfactory.

Along this line we wish to call your attention to the excessive use of twine. Two moderate sized strings each way are enough for any fleece, and this year we have had fleeces tied with a very heavy, coarse twine, which is nothing less than a rope, which of course adds to the weight of the fleece, and this is one of the reasons why manufacturers are using foreign wools more and more in preference to our domestic fleeces. The use of binder twine is simply carelessness on the part of the grower, and the use of an unnecessary amount of twine is an abuse which has come into the business, and which we have suffered for, and must put a stop to. If a realization of this is brought to the attention of the farmer we feel sure that he will do his best to correct it.

Will you kindly forward this circular to the editor of your local paper asking him to insert it in his paper, also will you not interest the officers of your local grange, and do all you can personally to right this matter.

Yours very truly,
Jeremiah Williams & Co.

ENORMOUS PROPERTY LOSS BY LIGHTNING.

State Fire Marshall T. M. Purcell calls Attention to This and Urges the Erection of Lightning Rods.

The season of property loss from lightning is at hand. With the coming of spring comes the electrical storms and this is followed each year by an increasing loss to property owing to the increasing number of large buildings and the gradual decrease in the timber throughout the state. In the past acted as Nature's conductor for the electric current. With but two electric storms so far this year, four losses within the state have been reported to this department. Destroying property to the extent of $30,385. Practically the unanimous opinion of authorities who have given the subject careful study and consideration leads to the conclusion that science today offers almost a positive protection against property loss from this source through the medium of improved and properly constructed lightning rods. This loss has been so enormous and has increased so rapidly with the decrease of timber that the importance of the subject has led scientific investigation to be made, not only by those who are interested in a commercial way but also by our own national government and in a recently issued pamphlet by the experiment station at Washington the value of property erected lightning rods has been very strongly urged and has even gone as far as to adopt a system of protection from lightning for all the buildings in the various yards of the U. S. Navy.

The competition in the insurance business today is so strong that all insurance companies are endeavoring to furnish protection at the least rate possible which will furnish them a living profit and for this reason any means of protection which appears to make property less liable to destruction by fire is given consideration by them in the making of rates.

The question of lightning losses and the measure of protection furnished by the lightning rod has been receiving a great deal of attention and consideration for the past few years, and while material results are not shown to a very large extent as yet there is no question but that the time is coming soon when buildings provided with approved protection will be insured at a lower rate than similar buildings which are not protected. This statement is borne out by the fact that the Western Fire Insurance Company of Lincoln, Nebraska, has recently issued a pamphlet illustrating their means to make the following reductions on buildings which are protected by copper lightning rods. Twenty per cent. below the regular rate is allowed on all barns; ten per cent. on dwellings, churches and school houses and ten per cent. on live stock in pastures where wire fences are properly grounded.

At a recent meeting of a farmers association in the state of Indiana, one of the leading papers read before the association was, "A plan by which insurance companies may insure properly protected buildings at a less rate than those not so protected." An inquiry sent out by this department about the first of the year and addressed to the secretary of all national fire insurance companies doing business in this state calling for the amount of loss during the year 1907 sustained through lightning, and asking for a comparison of losses on buildings protected with those which were unprotected brought replies which furnished the strongest endorsement possible for the lightning rod. The secretary of one of the national companies states that in thirty-three years their company has never sustained a loss on a building which was properly protected, and this is only a sample of the replies which were practically unanimous along the same line. "The National Board of Fire Underwriters, which is an organization for the investigation of fire losses from all sources and the best means of protection, have recently issued a pamphlet showing results of their investigation on lightning losses and strongly urging the erection of lightning rods as a means of protection. From personal investigation as to the methods used by almost all concerns in the lightning rod business today I am convinced that the business is carried on in a legitimate way and lightning rods can be purchased by the farmer today for as reasonable prices as any other commercial product and further than this the public is safeguarded through the fact that almost all concerns have local business men erect the rods and this gives the guarantee of the business methods through people who are known and trusted in the community. The expense of erecting the lightning rod is so small compared with the property loss as to be unworthy of consideration. Take for instance the expense of protecting a 10-foot post, the expense of protecting this building with copper rods all erected and completed would not exceed $100.00. Thirty-five dollars, and this would be the greatest expense for any make of rod as copper is the most expensive today, but it is used as an illustration from the fact that it is considered the best conductor, and when this is taken into consideration together with the fact that it will outlast almost any other metal, the slight difference in expense is not worthy of consideration.

Good Words for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

People everywhere take pleasure in testifying to the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mrs. Edward Phillips of Barclay, Md., writes: "I wish to tell you that I can recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My little girl, Catherine, who is two years old, has been taking this remedy whenever she has had a cold since she was two years old. About a month ago she contracted a dreadful cold myself, but I took Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was soon as well as ever." This remedy is for sale by Daily Drug & Jewelry Co.

ALTDORF.

Howard Seckels of Fond du Lac was interviewed by the farmers in this locality the fore part of the week to regard to forming an association for the purpose of testing dairy cows so that the poor ones may be weeded out and not make the good ones cover up the sins of the profligate ones. It is intended to hold a meeting at Vesper the latter part of May to see what can be done to interest the farmers to improve their cows. Exact notice of the meeting will be given later. No fee, just some push needed.

"Do auto others as you would be done by." We notice our Hansen correspondent took the town of Siskel to task last week on account of the poor road from Vesper to Henry Buckbarth's corner. This is only a part of the complaint; he ought to have said the Seneca corner. That piece of road is certainly a disgrace to any town, especially where there is so much travel. In the same article our correspondent tells how they turned down a piece of road near Altdorf. Now this is a piece on the line between Seneca and Hansen which piece, by mutual agreement, belongs to Hansen to keep up and how are they doing it? You couldn't drive an ox through part of it without miring him. Of course it is mired in the people of Seneca that made this place therefor.

Costly Leaks on the Farm.

"The dairy cow may be considered as an animated machine that has for her mission the conversion of feed into milk and butter fat," says Prof. D. H. Olds of the department of animal nutrition of the University of Wisconsin. His studies of a large number of herds and of individual cows show that there is a great difference in the efficiency of cow machines. One herd may produce from three to five times as much profit per cow as another herd in the same community. In the same herd one good cow may not intrinsically produce as much profit to the dairy farmer above the cost of feed and care as eight or ten poor cows.

In a comparison Prof. Olds made between two herds of dairy cows, representing the average of the cows in Wisconsin dairy districts, it was found that in one herd the two best cows produced 419 pounds of butter per cow per annum. Comparing the production of the poorest cow with that of the best two in the herd, and averaging the three, the yield of butter per cow was lowered from 419 to 813, a reduction of 106 lbs. of butter per cow for the year. In the second herd the average production of the two best cows in the herd was 457 pounds of butter. A comparison of the production of the poorest cow with the two best showed the average yield lowered from 437 to 301 for a cow, a reduction of 136 lbs. per cow. In both instances the poor cow reduced the average of the two best cows to the average yield of the entire herd.

The investigation shows that it is possible for a few poor cows in a herd to so reduce the profits realized from the good cows that the entire herd is kept either at a loss or at but small profit. The depressing influence of poor cows will be eliminated when the dairy farmer keeps records of the production of his individual cows so that he may discover and remove as soon as possible all "star boards."

Whereas there have always been road divisions of the town and an overseer appointed for each division, there is now but one road master for the whole town. Fred Buss has received such appointment from the town board and it is his policy to do but one piece of road work at a time and be on hand in person to superintend the same so as to be able to accomplish more results for the same amount of money expended. CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

No Not Endanger Life when a Grand Rapids Citizen Shows You the Cure.

—Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, backache, urinary disorders, lameness, headaches, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney diseases, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease set in. Read this Grand Rapids testimony:

Mrs. John Grogan, living at 639 Love St., Grand Rapids, Wis., says: "I am pleased to say that I received much benefit from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Previous to using them I was troubled with a dull jaundiced feeling in the morning as the result of a restless night. I had headaches and backaches, pains through my loins, and felt miserable most of the time. My kidneys gave me a great deal of annoyance during the night by their too frequent action. The secretions gave evidence of a disordered condition of my kidneys as they were highly colored, and contained a sediment. When I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box. They regulated the action of the kidneys, strengthened my back and the pains across my loins vanished."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

—Oil of wintergreen is this simple everyday oil of wintergreen, mixed with other healing herbs and vegetable ingredients, cure the worst forms of skin disease, and the remedy is so easy to apply, just an external liquid wash. No drugs or medicines, just a few drops of the wash applied to the itching, burning spots, then instant relief. The instant the oil is applied the itch is gone.

—Grand Opera House Thursday, May 7th.

—"My Boy, Jack," will probably be one of the most refined productions given at the Grand Opera House this season. There are no plain scenes, no heavy brooded villains, no adventures, no exaggerated climaxes or impossible situations, no monkey faced comedians, no impossible heroes and no short-skirted Soubrettes, but there is plenty of fun, causing hearty whole-hearted laughter, bright, witty dialogue, reasonable and logical complications and situations, set in an atmosphere of art, with a touch of life in Bohemia, and there is not one word which can offend the most sensitive nature. "My Boy, Jack," is a story of friendship, love and truth, and no greater sermon has ever been preached from any pulpit by the most eminent divines at the day, than can be drawn from the presentation of "My Boy, Jack."

—WILL SEE YOU AT A QUARTER TO FIVE.

Joseph Breese, 100 Sixth St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Dr. Rea, Minneapolis, Minn.

Dear Doctor: Your letter received, and I write to tell you that I will see you at the Pfister Hotel in Milwaukee, at a quarter to five, during your next visit here. I am feeling fine. My pains have left me, and the medicine is doing me much good. I am so glad to find this case, and the Lord knows I have tried enough doctors before I went to you. I am working now every day, and I know of several other patients who will come to see you during your next visit to Milwaukee.

We are glad to publish any letter in the interest of Dr. Rea and in the interest of people who are in need of such treatment that comes under his special line of practice. Dr. Rea limits his practice to the treatment of chronic, nervous, surgical diseases. Dr. Rea has been educated in the best hospitals in Europe and America, and is perhaps one of the best diagnosticians in the country today. It is claimed by his friends that he can diagnose the disease of any patient, even without asking a single question. This being the case, he is not liable to doctor them for the wrong ailment.

Below are the names of some of his most recent cures. People who are very grateful to Dr. Rea:

Albert Zika, Seuear Center, Minn. Cured of cancer of the nose, by the hypodermic injection method.

Fred Leopold's child, Chaska, Minn. Cured of catarrhal deafness, of seven years standing. Completely cured by medical treatment, after others said that an operation was the only thing that would cure her.

Miss Emma Strauss, Waconia, Minn. Cured of liver and stomach troubles.

August Schaefer, New Ulm, Minn. Cured of catarrh.

Jacob W. Gish, Kilkenny, Minn. Cured of rheumatism and stiff knee, after he had been on crutches for many years, had tried lots of doctors.

James Downey, Belle Plain, Minn. Cured of chronic, ulcerative catarrh of the stomach.

Fred Tolman, Waterville, Minn. Cured of chronic catarrh.

J. A. Nacoll's five year old daughter, Jackson, Minn. Cured of stomach trouble and cramps after having been treated for two years without results with other doctors. Cured by Dr. Rea and has never had a symptom since.

Mrs. Amanda O. Lee, Fosston, Minn. Cured of a chronic nervous condition that she had suffered with for years.

Mrs. Ferdinand Tisch, Long Prairie, Minn. Cured of enlarged liver, and stomach trouble.

Mrs. August Kohlok, Rice, Minn. Cured of big neck, or goiter of the neck.

Mrs. G. Rohmer, Long Prairie, Minn. Cured of varicose veins and chronic ulcerative catarrh.

Miss Mabel Erickson, Deerwood, Minn. Cured of chronic appendicitis and lung trouble.

Miss Tina Williams, Ulen, Minn. Cured of appendicitis.

William Edwick, Alexandria, Minn. Cured of granulated lids of the eye.

Mrs. Ing. Larson, Fosston, Minn. Cured of granulated eye lids.

Dr. Rea does not attempt to publish all the testimonials, as many don't like to have their name in the paper. However, he publishes only those that are glad to let others know that there is such a man as Dr. Rea and that he is making so many wonderful cures.

Dr. Rea will be in Grand Rapids at the Witter Hotel on Tuesday, May 12th.

CHAPTER I.
A Dangerous Errand.
A city of hills with a fringe of houses crowding the lower heights; the background of the hills, the mountains as they stretched away in the distance to right and left; a confused mass of buildings clinging to the water's edge on the flat; a forest of masts, ships swinging in, gray-green and the streaked, a cold light from the setting sun as it struggled through the whips of fog that fluttered above the serrated skyline of the city—these were my first impressions of San Francisco.

The wind blew fresh and chill from the west with the damp and salt from the Pacific heavy upon it, as I breathed the air and the forward deck of the ferry steamer, El Capitán. As I drank in the air and was silent with admiration of the beautiful panorama that was spread before me, my companion touched me on the arm. "Come into my cabin," he said. "You'll be one of those fellows who can't come to San Francisco without catching his death of cold, and then laying it to the climate instead of his own lack of common sense. Come, I can't spare you, now I've got you here at last. I wouldn't lose you for a million dollars."

"I'll come for half the money," I returned, as he took me by the arm and led me into the cabin. My companion, Henry, the son of my father's cousin, who had the advantage of a few years of residence in California, and sported all the airs of a pioneer. We had been close friends through boyhood and manhood, and it was on his offer of employment that I had come to the city by the Golden Gate.

"What's a resemblance?" I heard a woman exclaim, as we entered the cabin. "They must be twins." "There, Henry," I whispered with a laugh. "You see we are discovered. Though our relationship was not close we had been close in the mold of some common ancestor. We were so nearly alike in form and feature as to perplex all but our intimate acquaintances, and we had made the resemblance the occasion of many tricks in our boyhood days."

Henry had heard the exclamation as well as I, so my surprise, it appeared to bring him annoyance or apprehension rather than amusement. "I had forgotten that it would make us conspicuous," he said, and to himself that to me, I thought; and he glanced through the cabin as though he looked for some one. "We were used to that long ago," I said, as we found a seat. "Is the business ready for me? You wrote that you thought it would be in hand by the time I got here."

CHAPTER II.
A Cry for Help.
I hastily closed and locked the door. Then I rallied my spirits with something of resolution, and shamed myself with the reproach that I should fear to share any danger that Henry was ready to face. Wearied that Henry was with me, I was too much excited for sleep. Reading was equally impossible. I scarcely glanced at the stack of books that hung on the wall, and turned to a study of my surroundings.

The room was on the corner, as I have said, and I threw up the shades of the west window and looked out over a tangle of old buildings, ramshackle sheds, and an alley that appeared to lead nowhere. Some sound of a drunken quarrel drew my attention to the north window, and I looked out into the alley. There were shouts and curses, and one protesting, struggling inebriate was hurled out from the front door and left, with threats and foul language, to collect himself from the pavement. This edifying incident, which was explained to me solely by sound, had scarcely come to an end when a noise of creaking boards drew my eyes to the other window. The shutter suddenly flew around, and a human figure appeared at the open casement.

"S-h-h!" came the warning whisper, and I recognized my supposed robber. It was Henry. "Don't speak out loud," he said in suppressed tones. "Wait till I fasten this shutter." "Shall I shut the window?" I asked, thoroughly impressed by his manner. "No, you'll make too much noise," he said, stripping off his coat and vest. "Here, change clothes with me. Quick! It's a case of life and death. I must be out of here in two minutes. Do as I say, now. Don't ask questions. I'll tell you about it in a day or two. No, just the coat and vest."

CHAPTER III.
A Question in the Night.
I was awakened at this end to the investigation, and half doubted the evidence of my eyes. "Well," said the policeman, with a sigh of relief, "there's nothing here. I suspected that his doubts of my sanity were returning. 'Here is where it was done,' I asserted stoutly, pointing to the spot where I had seen the struggling group from the window. 'There were surely five or six men in it.' 'It's hard to make sure of things from above in this light,' said the policeman, hinting once more his suspicion that I was confusing dreams with reality."

AUTOS AT A COYOTE DRIVE.

California Hunt Not as Successful as Had Been Hoped For.

A large crowd of San Joaquin county residents assembled at the Bolinger ranch, in the eastern part of the county, and enjoyed a coyote drive, which was not as destructive as the people of that district hoped for, as the animals kept out of sight and only a few were killed. Of late the coyotes have been killing sheep, pigs and chickens. The scarcity of dead animals has caused the coyotes to invade the ranches and give the farmer a lot of trouble. As a general rule, these animals seldom attack stock, but when driven to starvation they become bold.
